Teachers' visit to Cathay Pacific Catering Services

In order to learn more about the aviation industry, TTEP arranged for 50 teachers to visit Cathay Pacific Catering Services (HK) Limited [CPCS] and Hong Kong Aircraft Engineering Co. Ltd [HAECO] in January 2005.

Teachers could inspect the preparation of inflight meals, which are required to meet impeccable standards of quality and cleanliness at CPCS. They also viewed the aeronautical engineering services made available to airlines and operators.

Mr Stephen Wong, Cathay Pacific's Passenger Sales Manager – Hong Kong, explained to the teachers in great detail how Cathay Pacific promotes tourism in Hong Kong, how it packages travel products, sells packages and meets various other challenges. The information provided enhanced the teachers' understanding of Cathay Pacific's relationship with the tourism industry.

Between October 2004 and March 2005, around 300 teachers and students visited Cathay Pacific City. During the two-hour visit, attendees were able to see the environmentally friendly facility. They were able to try the different types of seating arrangements for economy, business and first class. Tours of the reservations department, flight training centre and CXcitement retail outlet were of great interest to the attendees. ■
